SPEAKERS

Sherman Boone

Senior Policy Advisor in IOSCO's Standards Development Department

Sherman Boone joined the IOSCO Secretariat in October 2023. He is seconded from the US SEC's Division of Economic and Risk Analysis. He has served since 2014 as Senior Policy Advisor involved in multilateral engagements addressing emerging risks, financial technologies, data identifiers and standards, benchmarks, and market-based financing, among other matters. This followed nearly a decade as Assistant Director in the SEC's Office of International Affairs, where he had regulatory policy planning and coordination responsibilities for relations with foreign authorities, including involvement in IOSCO, FSB, and G20 crisis-response and regulatory reform initiatives and participation in bilateral economic and financial policy dialogues.

Prior to the SEC, Sherman served as a Senior International Economist with the US Treasury Department. He also served in the White House as Director, International Economics, staffing G7 and G8 Summits. Earlier in his career, following a tour in the US State Department, Sherman worked as a banker and advisor, structuring and arranging sovereign and sub-sovereign, corporate and municipal financings. He is a graduate of Grinnell College and Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs.

Martin Manuzi

PIOB Secretary General (March 2024)

Dr. Martin B. Manuzi has 25 years of international experience in regulatory and public interest matters relating to governance, reporting, assurance and tax.

He joined the PIOB in 2022 as Nominations Director, when the PIOB assumed responsibility for appointing members to the Standard-Setting Boards.

In June 2023, he took over the Secretary General position from Gonzalo Ramos, first in an acting capacity and was subsequently appointed Secretary General on a permanent basis with effect from 1 March 2024.

Martin was extensively engaged while based in Brussels on EU regulatory and legislative initiatives in the audit and accountancy spheres from 2000 to 2020. Among Martin's additional areas of activity prior to joining the PIOB are: ethical tax planning through his leadership of the CFE Tax Advisers Europe 2021 initiative on “an ethics quality bar for all tax advisers”; audit quality assurance through his establishment and Chairmanship of the Quality Assurance Network for non-PIE audit; and public sector accounting and reporting through his Chairmanship of the ICAEW-PwC discussion series on “Sustainable public finances – EU perspectives”.

Over 2016-20, Martin was Chair of the Accountancy Sub-Group of the UK Professional Business Services Council’s Mutual Market Access Group, addressing the impact of Brexit on the accountancy profession. In 2008, Martin was lead researcher and author of an authoritative study on the structure and functioning of international accountancy firms published by the Fédération des Experts Comptables Européens (now Accountancy Europe).

Martin completed a Ph.D in 2000 on the Italian state industrial sector, addressing the impact of political interference in the management of the Italian state industrial sector through corporate governance case studies. He worked as a part-time university lecturer from 1993 to 1998 in modern economic and political history.
